An Employee Owned Company

CONSTRUCTION
New Hire

Jenco

Erickson-Hall Construction Co. is pleased to welcome Jeff Jenco, Project Executive, to the company's senior project management team. Jenco brings more than two decades of public and private sector construction expertise to Erickson-Hall. In his position as project executive, he will provide senior management oversight to select education projects and will hold a pivotal role in directing the firm's expansion into new markets.

Prior to joining Erickson-Hall, Jenco spent 27 years with Lusardi Construction and was responsible for the identification, qualification and successful delivery of a broad range of projects, including the $60 million Del Rey Crossing in Marina del Rey, the $35 million Elevon Campus in El Segundo, and the $152 million reconstruction of San Marcos High School in the City of San Marcos.

Established in 1998 in Escondido, Erickson-Hall is an employee-owned general contractor, construction manager and design-builder specializing in municipal, education, and faith-based building.

Jeff Jenco can be reached at (760) 796-7700 or jjenco@ericksonhall.com

TECHNICAL ADVISORY Announcement

Blazevich

Founded in 2003, CNM LLP is a technical advisory firm that provides high value, specialized accounting advisory services based in Southern California, with offices in Los Angeles, Orange County, New York, and now San Diego. Recognized as a Great Place to Work®, CNM is an organization fully committed to helping businesses identify and address critical accounting issues in an effective and proactive way. Since its inception, CNM has worked with a wide range of clients ranging from startups and closely held mid-market companies to multi-national Fortune 500 companies.

Matthews

Recently, CNM has expanded its Southern California footprint with a new office location in San Diego, which will provide a full suite of services, including technical accounting, financial reporting, IPO and audit readiness assistance, and SOX compliance services to companies across various industries, with a focus on life sciences. To lead the expansion, CNM has hired seasoned accounting professional Tasia Blazevich, who brings over 20 years of experience in both public accounting and the private sector. Blazevich has served a wide variety of clients in many industries throughout her career. During the past five years, she has focused on emerging growth life science companies in the San Diego market, most recently with Ernst & Young. Commenting on the new San Diego office, CNM's Managing Partner and Founder Nathan Matthews said, "We made the strategic decision to open a new office in San Diego to provide growth and development opportunities to our professionals and accommodate our growing client base who demand our specialized, best-in-class advisory services and personalized approach."

Wheeler

Jeremy Wheeler, CNM Partner and the Irvine office's leader, has also guided the expansion into San Diego after leading the successful CNM expansion into Irvine in 2015, a first for the company. This is CNM's second new location to open in 2019 after its recent expansion to New York City, to accommodate its growing client base around the country.
